Dumbarton Oaks Plan For New Council To Maintain World Peace

BRITAIN, the United States, the U.S.S.R., China and, eventually, France, would have the prime responsibility for maintaining world peace, according to the tentative proposals of the Dumbarton Oaks Plan, full details of which were published yesterday in London.

It suggests that an international organisation, to be entitled "The United Nations," should be formed of all peace-loving countries, on the lines of the League of Nations.

The publication of these proposals for world security coincided with an announcement that Mr. Churchill and Mr. Anthony Eden, the British Foreign Secretary, had arrived in Moscow for talks with Marshal Stalin and M. Molotov.

Allies' Aim—To Win Before Winter

—Berlin

THE Berlin military spokesman, quoted by the German Overseas News Agency, said yesterday:—

"The general assault against the inner walls of the European rampart, which was begun on Sunday simultaneously on the fronts in the west, east and south, is governed by General Eisenhower's intention to end the war by a decisive victory before winter sets in.

"The Allies will try to make an end before winter breaks. The German High Command is basing its plans on the principle of offering maximum resistance by which to wear down the enemy."—(Reuter.)

MR. CHURCHILL AND MR. EDEN IN MOSCOW

MR. CHURCHILL and Mr. Eden are in Moscow for talks with Marshal Stalin and M. Molotov, the Soviet Foreign Commissar. Their arrival at Moscow airport yesterday morning was announced in a broadcast from the Soviet capital.

Simultaneously Mr. Attlee, the Deputy Prime Minister, gave the news to the British House of Commons, when he said:—"The House will wish me to inform them that the Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary have arrived safely in Moscow for discussions with Marshal Stalin and M. Molotov.

"They are accompanied by the Chief of the Imperial General Staff, the Chief Staff Officers of the Minister of Defence and other military advisers.

"This meeting is a sequel to the meeting at Quebec. Marshal Stalin, who was unable to accept the invitation to go to Quebec, welcomed this opportunity of meeting the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary so soon afterwards.

"The meeting in Moscow has the fullest approval of the U.S. Government, and, the U.S. Ambassador in Moscow, Mr. Averill Harriman, will be the representative of the U.S. Government at the conversations."

Mr. Churchill made a short statement at the airport on his arrival. "It is two years since I was in Moscow—two years marked by an unbroken series of victories," he said. He paid a tribute to the Red Army, which, he said, had broken the structure of the German Army.

The delegation travelled in five British planes, and Mr. Churchill's plane was a special craft. They landed at Moscow Airport, where M. Molotov was the first to greet the Premier.

Reuter's Staff Correspondent, cabling from Moscow, added that the whole group, including members of the Staff, numbers nearly 50 people. The greater part of the Staff arrived on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Churchill and other principal representatives arrived at 11.45 yesterday morning.

It was learned that Mr. Churchill requested the conference with Marshal Stalin and that big news was expected following the conference.

This is the first contact between Marshal Stalin and any other of the main leaders of the United Nations since Teheran last November.

Georg Shroeder, Chief Political Correspondent of the German Overseas News Agency, said last night that "mainly political problems will be on the agenda of the Anglo-Russian discussions." "Undoubtedly, a number of Balkan questions demand immediate clarification and solution, and more are arising with the further advance of Russian troops into the heart of the Balkans and Hungary.

"Wilhelmstrasse circles expect that Stalin will claim the Baltic countries, the Balkans and Finland as Russia's sole sphere of influence.

"Compared with these primary topics, discussion on developments in Scandinavian countries, Italy and France may be expected to take second place."

The Press Association Diplomatic Correspondent writes:—

"The meeting between the British and Russian statesmen does not, I learned in London, exclude the possibility that President Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill and Marshal Stalin will meet later this year.

"There is no doubt that the opportunity will be taken by the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary, informally and personally, to discuss Polish problems. As a result of Mr. Churchill's presence, there, it is possible that the Polish Premier may make another journey to Moscow to attempt to settle one of the most urgent of the immediate problems in Europe."

AIRFIELDS BOMBED

HUNDREDS of American fighter-bombers on Sunday dive-bombed a score of German airfields, Ninth Air Force H.Q. announces. Incomplete reports claim destruction on the ground of at least 64 German planes and severe damage to 49.

More than 1,100 American Flying Fortresses and Liberators attacked targets in the Schweinfurt, Coblenz and Mainz regions of Germany yesterday.

Thunderbolts and Lightnings flew 1,311 sorties against fighter fields and communication networks, and 300 Marauders and Havocs heavily attacked German bridges and supply dumps immediately behind the German lines.

Airfields attacked by the Thunderbolts and Lightnings included those at Gelchsheim, Wurtzburg, Germersheim, Frankfort, Babenhausen, Grossenhein, Ascha Giessen, Bad Nauheim, Bonn and Coblenz.—(Press Association.)

Ten Miles From Bologna

THE German Overseas News Agency announced late last night:—

"A few hours ago the American Fifth Army launched an offensive in the Etruscan Alps, which was heralded by massed air attacks and drum-like fire artillery.

"The main weight of this new assault is being exerted on the area of the Futa Pass Road.

"Under cover of artificial fog, substantial American forces assailed the German mountain positions, which are being fiercely contested. The enemy break-through attempt is being carried out on a broad front, and some local breaches have either been sealed off or cleared."

Long-range artillery is shelling the outskirts of Bologna as the Fifth Army battle through rain and mud along the last ten miles separating them from the city.

Arnotts

The Security Council suggested in the Dumbarton Oaks plan would have the primary responsibility for maintaining peace and security. On it representatives of the "Big Five" would have permanent seats. Six other seats would be filled by six other States, which would be elected for two years each, three retiring each year.

The Council would be empowered to investigate any dispute or any situation which might lead to international friction, and any State, whether a member of the organisation or not, would be able to bring such a dispute to the Council's attention.

The Council would be given power to take such action by air, naval, or land forces, as might be necessary to maintain or restore international peace and security. Such action might include demonstrations, blockade, and other operations by air, sea, or land forces by members of the organisation.

USE OF FORCE

All members would undertake to make available to the Security Council armed forces, facilities and help necessary to keep the peace.

To enable urgent military measures to be taken, national air force contingents should be held immediately available by the members for combined international enforcement action.

Disputing States should first try to seek a way out by negotiation, mediation, conciliation, arbitration, or judicial settlement, or any other peaceful means of their choice. But if the dispute continued the Security Council would decide whether they should deal with it and whether to recommend appropriate procedures or methods of adjustment.

The Security Council would have power to determine what diplomatic, economic or other measures not involving the use of force should be employed to carry out its decisions, and to call on members to apply them. These would include complete or partial interruption of rail, sea, air, postal, telegraphic, radio and other means of communication, and also the severance of diplomatic and economic relations.

The Council should encourage settlements of local disputes through regional arrangements, and would, where appropriate, use them for enforcement action.

The first of twelve chapters in the proposed international charter says that the purposes of the United Nations' organisation should be to maintain peace, to take effective collective measures for the prevention and removal of threats to peace, and the suppression of aggression; to develop friendly relations and other measures to strengthen universal peace, to achieve international co-operation in the solution of international, economic, social and other humanitarian problems, and "to afford a centre for harmonising the actions of nations in the achievement of these common ends."

The British Foreign Office News Department states that Britain, the United States, the U.S.S.R. and China have agreed that, after a further study of the plan, they will, as soon as possible, take the necessary steps to prepare complete proposals, which could then serve as a basis of discussion at a full United Nations' conference.

FUTURE TALKS

The Press Association Diplomatic Correspondent writes:—

The major question still outstanding at the end of the seven weeks' discussion is the position of any one of the Great Powers if it should be accused of aggression. This is, no doubt, a point which will be discussed when later this year Mr. Churchill, Marshal Stalin, the President of the United States, and, probably, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek meet. This is likely to take place after the Presidential election in America, and the tentative arrangements for this second "Teheran" are, I understand, already under consideration.

In the new year it may be found possible to summon the great international conference of representatives of all the United Nations, who, between them, will formally erect the great international organisation, successor to the League of Nations.

At the appropriate time neutral States will be invited into consultation.

President Roosevelt, in a statement on the Dumbarton Oaks Conference, said:—

"This time we have been determined first to defeat the enemy, sure that he shall never again be in a position to plunge the world into a world war, and to organise peace-loving nations that they may, through unity of desire, unity of will and unity of strength, be in a position to assure that no other would-be aggressor or conqueror shall even get started.

"The task of planning the great design of security and peace has been well begun."

Pope's Message To Belgium

The Pope, in a message to Prince Charles, the Belgian Regent, says, states Reuter's Brussels Correspondent: "We wish to assure you of the particular affection we bear your country in so grave an hour in its history. We are confident that you will acquit yourself in the spirit and noble Christian traditions of your country."

Chinese Retake Towns

Chinese successes in the Japanese rear, near the Kwangtung-Kwangsi border in South China, were reported in last night's Chinese communiqué. Loting, south of the Treaty port of Wuchow, and Wanfow have been taken, states Reuter.

PREMATURE PUBLICATION OF REPORT

THE leakage to the American Press of the Dumbarton Oaks conference report on Sunday night brought diplomats in Washington tumbling out of their beds early yesterday, says Reuter's Special Correspondent.

In spite of the agreement between the four Powers that the report should be published simultaneously in their capitals at 5 p.m. (I.S.T.) yesterday, the American public were informed by a New York newspaper of the terms of the agreement twelve hours before the release time, and actually, it is believed, before some of the United Nation Governments became fully acquainted with the report.

After publication, officials of the State Department talked on the telephone with the British Embassy and members of the other delegations about releasing the report to all, but it was decided to retain the embargo.

Press relations at the conference are generally assessed in Washington as the most ineptly handled of any international conference to date.

Transport Bill

A NEW text of the Transport Bill, incorporating the amendments passed in the Dail, has been issued.

The Bill now contains 135 Sections. When introduced the number was 117.

Million Pound Tourist Plan

SCHEMES to cost over a million pounds for works in connection with the Irish tourist traffic have been made by the Tourist Board, for execution when normal supply conditions return. This is stated in the report of the Board for the year ended March 31st last. A detailed scheme is also in readiness for presentation in outside countries on the resumption of normal travel conditions.

Work done at home includes a further advance of development construction at Tramore through the agency of the Construction Corps. Similar work at Bundoran, Lisdoonvarna and Portmarnock has been held up by legal difficulties in connection with the acquisition of sites. The estimated cost of schemes awaiting approval at the end of the year is £210,000. In each case the Board had to ensure that its proposals will be profitable enough to cover repayment with interest of the advances made by the Central Fund. An important feature of the scheme is the construction of holiday camps for workers and their families.

Under the registration scheme for hotels and boarding-houses 1,525 applications had been received.

When last they met, at Teheran, M. Stalin toasted Mr. Churchill's health on his birthday. Mr. Eden is seen on the left.

Sentence of Death For Murder of Detective

FOUND guilty of the murder of Detective-Sergeant Denis O'Brien, at Ballyboden, Rathfarnham, on September 9th, 1942, Charles Kerins (26), Caherina, Tralee, at the Special Criminal Court, Dublin, yesterday, was sentenced to death by hanging. The date of the execution was fixed for Tuesday, October 31st.

After sentence was pronounced and the Court had adjourned, Kerins, apparently unmoved, was removed in custody. When leaving the courtroom he said "good-bye" to his sister, who had been present during the trial.

When the Court sat yesterday the President, addressing Kerins, said: Charles Kerins, the Court adjourned this case on Friday in order to give you a further opportunity of considering your position. Do you wish to make any application to the Court?

Kerins—You could have adjourned it for six months as far as I am concerned, as my attitude towards the Court will always be the same.

President—It is my duty to inform you as to your position. You can, if you wish, give evidence on oath on your own behalf, in which case you will be cross-examined. You may call any witnesses you wish, or you can make a statement, not on oath, and in that case you will not be cross-examined. Do you wish to give evidence?—Kerins—No.

NO STATEMENT

Do you wish to call witnesses?—No.

Do you wish to make any statement not on oath in relation to the charges?—No.

Have you nothing to say?—No.

The President then announced that the Court would adjourn until later in the day.

When the Court sat in the afternoon, the President said:—

"On Friday last the Court deemed it proper to inform the accused man, Charles Kerins, that a prima facie case had been established against him. Certain important features in the evidence given on behalf of the State were brought to his notice. The Court then adjourned until to-day to enable him to consider these and his position generally, and, if he so desired, even at that stage, to obtain legal assistance.

"To-day he again persisted in his attitude of non-recognition of the Court, and he has made no effort to answer the case against him. His attitude throughout this case has placed on the Court the responsibility of ensuring that the course adopted by him would not be allowed either to prejudice his trial in any way, or to interfere with the interests of justice. The fact that the accused man has not answered the charge or defended himself is not evidence against him. This did not in any way relieve the prosecution of the onus of proving the charge against him and of establishing beyond reasonable doubt that he was one of the perpetrators of this crime.

"Having carefully considered every aspect of this case," continued the President, "the Court is satisfied that such onus of proof has been discharged, and consequently the Court decides that Charles Kerins was one of the persons who murdered Detective-Sergeant O'Brien on September 9th, 1942. Accordingly, Charles Kerins is found guilty of the charge of murder preferred against him."

Kerins was then asked by the Court Registrar: Have you, Charles Kerins, anything to say why sentence of death should not be passed upon you?

Kerins—All I can say is that, if the Free State authorities are satisfied that I got a fair trial here, I hope their consciences are clear on the point. If this is an example of de Valera's justice, freedom and democracy, then I would like to know what dictatorship and militarism are. That is about all I have to say.

Sentence of death was then passed in the following terms by the President: "The sentence and judgment of the Court are, and it is ordered and adjudged that you, Charles Kerins, be taken from the Bar of the Court where you now stand to the prison from which you last came; and, that on Tuesday, October 31st, 1944, you be taken to the common place of execution in the prison in which you shall then be confined, and that you be then and there hanged by the neck until you are dead, and that your body be buried within the walls of the prison in which the aforesaid sentence of death shall have been executed and may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

RIGHT OF APPEAL

Mr. R. J. McLoughlin, S.C., who (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted — I respectfully suggest that, in view of the attitude adopted by the accused man in this case, that he be informed of such further rights as he may have in connection with this trial, namely, that he may apply to this Court, on sufficient grounds stated by him, for a certificate of leave to appeal, and that in the event of the refusal of that certificate he shall have the right to appeal to the same Court against such refusal.

Registrar (to Kerins)—Have you any application to make?

Kerins — Personally, I do not think I am capable of making any application.

President—Any application you make at a later stage will be considered by the Court.

The Court then adjourned.

In his evidence before the Special Criminal Court on Thursday last, during the hearing of the murder charge against Charles Kerins, a chief superintendent referred to a document, which stated: "Send reply the same way as have sent this. Write to the Rev. Father Kelly, Whitefriar, Kilnacrott." It has been pointed out to us that there is no Friary of Whitefriars at Kilnacrott, and that the clergyman referred to is not a member of the Carmelite Order.

British Navy Losses

The British Board of Admiralty has announced the following losses in recent Allied operations:—

Minesweepers — H.M.S. Loyalty, H.M.S. Britomart and H.M.S. Hussar.

Trawler—H.M.S. Gairsay. Auxiliary Vessel—H.M.S. Fratton. The next-of-kin of casualties have been informed.

Americans Battle Into Suburbs of Aachen

German Scheldt "Pocket" Invaded From Sea

AMERICAN 1st Army forces, steadily closing on Aachen, yesterday cut the main road to Julich.

This highway is the last major withdrawal route left to an estimated 1,500 German troops believed entrenched in the rubble of the industrial centre.

According to a Berlin report last night, American forces yesterday broke into the suburbs of Aachen.

The northern arm of the American encircling forces yesterday reached Wurselen, three and a half miles north-east of Aachen, on the main road to Gladbach, while the southern arm is at Crucifix Hill, near Haaren. Between these two points is a withdrawal corridor one and a half miles wide.

Other American forces, driving from north and south, have reached the road junctions of Broich and Weiden, five and seven and a half miles north-east of Aachen respectively on the road to Julich.

Further to the north, in the area of the breach in the Siegfried defences, 1st Army troops have driven a mile beyond Alsdorf to capture the German town of Schaufenberg.

The German garrison has little chance to withdraw from Aachen, for Allied artillery has the corridor covered from innumerable commanding positions.

The Americans are still clinging firmly to Crucifix Hill, in spite of four vicious counter-attacks yesterday. The first of these attacks was the strongest and there was grim hand-to-hand fighting.

Other First Army forces are probing steadily through the thickly-wooded country in the vicinity of Roetgen, 10 miles south-east of Aachen.

The German News Agency reported last night:—

"American forces succeeded in breaking into the south-eastern suburbs of Aachen in very bitter fighting to-day. Many hours later, after fierce German counter-attacks, the break-through area was sealed off."

The German commentator, Sertorius, said:—"The Americans are throwing, constantly, new forces into the pincer operation against Aachen, concentrating on advancing east of the town from Geilenkirchen and north from Stolberg. The pincers have not yet closed altogether, but with the non-stop reinforcements thrown in by General Hodges, a further increase in the fury of the battle is certain."

Heavy tank fighting is going on between Metz and Nancy, on the U.S. 3rd Army front.

According to the German News Agency, the Americans have made an advance of three miles on a seven-mile front, and, with strong air support, are aiming at a break-through.

American troops yesterday entered Letricourt, 14 miles north-east of Nancy, and street fighting is in progress.

NEW LANDING

British and Canadian troops of the Canadian 1st Army "invaded" the German "pocket" south of the Scheldt estuary early yesterday by landing from barges in the rear of the Germans. The barges sailed down the estuary from Terneuzen.

The landing—roughly south of Flushing—was made in fair strength, and, although complete surprise was not achieved and the Germans shelled the beach-head, it is reported that resistance was not great, and the Allied troops are making satisfactory progress.

For several weeks this "pocket," stretching approximately from Zeebrugge to the inlet west of Ternfuzen, has held up the Canadian army along the Leopold Canal. They have forced one bridgehead across the canal, but to retain it has been a hard fight against an enemy well dug-in in flat country, which the Germans cover with machine-gun and mortar fire from all directions.

In the "pocket" is the German 64th Infantry Division, numbering 10,000.

Shells from the guns of Walcheren Island—many of them entirely surrounded by the water which has flooded in from the gaps in the bombed sea wall—are now falling on the landing beaches.

There is no news of any large-scale activity from the British 2nd Army front. German Radio said last night: "Large-scale Allied preparations in the Nijmegen area indicate that an all-out assault may start at any time."

The German garrison at St. Nazaire yesterday rejected a new offer to surrender from the American Commander, the German News Agency stated.

Blow-lamps Used In Fortress Battle

FIERCE fighting continued yesterday at Fort Driant, in the Metz area. U.S. troops hold the south-west section.

Oxy-acetylene blow-lamps are being used by the Americans in this extraordinary battle to drive the Germans out of the strong points and underground passages of the fort. With the blow-lamps the sappers have cut through five steel doors, and advanced 300 yards along the main tunnel under the fort.—(Reuter.)

NO BARLEY IN FLOUR NEXT MONTH

EMERGENCY regulations requiring millers to use a certain proportion of barley in the production of flour will be discontinued at the end of this month. Within the next few weeks there will be a revocation of orders requiring traders to hold licences for the sale of bread and flour. Licences for the production of batch bread will be continued in view of the subsidy which is paid on this commodity.

An Irish Times representative learned yesterday from an authoritative source that in December last, when it was decided to produce a flour of a lesser extraction than 100 per cent., it was found necessary to supplement the supply of wheat with barley. Although imported wheat will still be needed to supplement the yield from this year's harvest, it is anticipated that enough will be available to provide an all-wheaten flour of 85 per cent. extraction until the next harvest. Following the compulsory measures taken last year to secure an increased acreage of wheat, the yield of native wheat is expected to be substantially greater than it was the previous year.

Sales of flour increased by about 10 per cent. since 1939, and the output of the mills had been correspondingly increased. The present output is sufficient to meet the full demands of the country, but it is not proposed to authorise the millers to produce more flour. Retailers and wholesalers who engage in the flour and bread trade for the first time will have to make their own arrangements to secure supplies.

FIVE RED ARMY GROUPS IN BALTIC ASSAULT

THE Soviet autumn offensive is mounting, cables Reuter's special correspondent in Moscow. General Bagramyan's army group is attacking the German Baltic defences towards Memel and Libau, and General Chernyakovsky is driving towards the East Prussian port of Tilsit. Moscow states that advanced troops are within 12 miles of the East Prussian border.

In South-Eastern Hungary, according to the Berlin commentator, Von Olberg, the Red Army is only 55 miles from the Hungarian capital after crossing the Thiess, the main water barrier of the great plain.

"The German High Command, for political reasons, has withdrawn its army completely from the area of the Transylvanian Alps," said Von Olberg later, "and is now concentrating on the defence of the Hungarian plain at the Cluj-Turda line."

The elimination of the Baltic States is now practically complete, cables Reuter's Special Correspondent. Five army groups, under Govorov, Maslennikov, Eremenko, Bagramyam and Chernyakovsky, are forcing Germans back to the sea.

A German report, quoted by Reuter, states that a total of 60 Soviet infantry divisions, 6 tank corps and 12 tank brigades—almost 1,000,000 men—are at present employed in the grand-scale assault against Memel and Libau.

Col. von Hammer reported a new Soviet move below Warsaw — an attack in depth from the Vistula bridgehead south of Warsaw.

"NEW TRAP"

The German News Agency reported last night that the Red Army pincers are forming a "giant new trap" for the German and Hungarian troops still fighting in Northern Transylvania. "West of Debreczin a Russian tank formation has crossed the road to Budapest from south to north, and is trying to join forces with the troops fighting on the Dukla Pass, through the Carpathians from Poland into Czechoslovakia. This is, without any doubt, dangerous, particularly for the German-Hungarian groups still further to the east," the agency added.

Moscow Radio stated last night that units of the Czechoslovak Army, with military and civil representatives of the delegation which recently arrived in Moscow, have crossed into Slovakia with the Red Army.

Moscow also reported that Yugo-Slav troops in Slovenia have reached the Hungarian front on an 18-mile front.

The Rumanian communiqué recorded important territorial gains by Soviet and Rumanian troops west of Oradea Mare and Bekescsaba, on the Orient express route from Arad to Budapest.

The Soviet communiqué, which detailed advances in the direction of Tilsit, Riga, and on the island of Oesel, stated that in Hungarian territory, south-west of Debrecen, Soviet forces captured a number of towns and railway stations, and more than 100 large inhabited localities. "Enemy planes, totalling 140, were captured on aerodromes. During October 8th 4,220 Germans and Hungarians were taken prisoner. In all, in three days' fighting 8,220 prisoners were taken. Yesterday 202 tanks were destroyed."

Italian Bank Governor Faces Death Sentence

Vincenzo Azzolini, former Governor of the Bank of Italy, whose trial opened yesterday in Rome, faces the possibility of a death sentence, states Reuter, if he is found guilty on charges of transferring large quantities of gold from Rome to Northern Italy on the orders of the German military and civil authorities.

Taoiseach Indisposed

Acting on his doctor's advice, owing to a slight indisposition, An Taoiseach, Mr. de Valera, did not attend the Fianna Fail Ard-Fheis ceilidhe in the Mansion House, Dublin, last night. He expects to be present at the Ard-Fheis to-day.

T.B. Committee Meets

The Tuberculosis Committee of the Dublin Corporation at its meeting yesterday discussed the recommendations of Dr. M. Russell, Medical Officer of Health, and Dr. M. Crowe, Deputy Medical Officer of Health, published exclusively in the Irish Times on September 30th and October 2nd last. No decision was reached.

German Defences in Depth To the Rhine

BY OUR MILITARY CORRESPONDENT

THE development of the tactical situation on the Western Front tends to place more and more emphasis on the American 1st Army's thrust eastward in the Aachen area.

It becomes steadily clearer that the Allied Supreme Command hopes to achieve here the success which it has so far been denied in other sectors.

The width of the American penetration—15 miles—is small, and to the fixed concrete defences of the Siegfried Line are added the further obstacles of rolling terrain and extensive forests. These, especially the latter, prevent any large-scale or extensive progress; rather they compel the slow and costly siege and assault of innumerable strong points.

It had been assumed that once the defined area of the fixed defences regarded as constituting the Siegfried Line had been finally pierced the road to the Rhine would be relatively open. This assumption is no longer wholly tenable. Already reports have indicated that the Americans have encountered new works erected by civilian labour, and there is no reason to doubt that, as time passes, these works will be created and developed right back to the Rhine.

The deduction to be drawn from this is that if German resistance continues at its present strength the Allied forward movement will remain slow and limited of frontage. Further, there still remains the line of the Rhine as a last and difficult barrier, and this would not constitute a tempting objective for a winter campaign.

It is a peculiarity of the present situation on the western front that, while there are many points of similarity between it and that obtaining in the autumn of 1918, the method of approach to a solution of the problem is, so far, different.

In 1918 Marshal Foch directed a series of widely-spaced and consecutive blows against the German line with the object of straining the defences and limiting the employment of reserves. This method succeeded, and finally compelled the continuous withdrawal of the German armies. In comparison the present Allied strategy, while certainly based on a full analysis of all the various factors controlling the situation, permits the Germans to concentrate their reserves of men and supplies in the vital area of Aachen. This being so, the further rate of Allied progress here must largely determine the action to be taken on other sectors of the front.

MOTHER, DO THIS for FRETFUL BABY

You have seen the difference between babies whose sleep is deep and unbroken and babies who are restless, cross, cry at night. In the former, a steady, healthy growth; in the latter, weight at a standstill—perhaps even a few precious ounces lost. Guard against this, Mother! At the first sign of fretfulness or broken sleep, you can suspect stomach upset. Food is soured. The small bowels are constipated. No wonder baby cannot sleep.

The very minute these signs appear, give a little 'Milk of Magnesia' brand antacid. Nothing else so gently and surely sweetens the little stomach, regulates the tiny bowels, rids the small system of tormenting wind and soured matter. Then, when the digestion is regular and movements healthy, baby falls nightly into healthy, untroubled sleep. You will be delighted with the tale the scales tell—new ounces gained each week.

'Milk of Magnesia' is recommended by Doctors and Nurses everywhere as the gentle and safe laxative antacid for babies. You can get it everywhere at 1/3 and 2/6, but be sure, Mother, to say 'MILK of Magnesia,' which is the registered trade mark of Phillips' preparation of magnesia.

Irish Racing Topics

—AND NOW FOR THE CESAREWITCH

By Our Irish Racing Correspondent

ANTICIPATIONS that this year's Irish Cambridgeshire would result in a close finish were realised to the full when the judge was unable to separate Drybob and Dawros as they went past the post at the Curragh on Saturday. It might justifiably be described as a handicapper's dream, and yet another tribute to Mr. J. C. Osborne's masterly assessment of the relative merits of the horses with which he has to deal.

There were no "hard luck" stories attached to the race, which was run at a good gallop throughout; so no excuses can reasonably be offered on behalf of the beaten horses.

The result might fittingly be described as a triumph for small stables, as Mr. George Robinson, who trains Dawros for his wife, who also bred the gelding, rarely has more than a few horses in training, while Vincent O'Brien, who prepared Drybob for the race, has only a small string—but a very useful one—under his care at Clashgariff House, Churchtown, Mallow, from which establishment his father, the late D. P. O'Brien, sent out many notable winners, such as Solford, Astrometer and Astrologer, to take but a few at random. Family tradition looks like being well maintained by the present proprietor, who showed decidedly good judgment in buying Drybob at Newmarket last December.

It was a masterly piece of riding on the part of the champion jockey, Morny Wing, on Drybob and J. Eddery on Dawros. Both exceptionally strong finishers, they got the utmost out of their respective mounts.

THE SECOND "LEG"

The Cambridgeshire having been decided, interest is now being directed towards the second "leg"—the Cesarewitch, to be decided at the transferred meeting at Phœnix Park on November 4th. An entry of 95 gives plenty to think about, but a serious discussion of the race may safely be left until after the publication of the weights this week-end.

There are two acceptance stages (Oct. 18 and Oct. 25) and it is to be hoped that the eliminations will be of fair proportions, otherwise it is difficult to see how some amount of confusion can be avoided as they come around the bends, even in a field of 30 or thereabouts. The advisability of running the race in two divisions; starting in two lines or running over the complete circular course (back of the stands) has been unofficially discussed, and some of the jockeys to whom I have spoken are all in favour of the last-named course should the field be an unwieldy one. However, there is plenty of time between then and now, and it is certain that every provision will be made to ensure of the race being a truly run one.

A TOTE QUERY

To judge by some inquiries I have had, several people seem to be slightly confused over the division of the Tote double pool at the Curragh on Saturday. The explanation is quite simple. Of those who took Solid Pact as the first leg, thirteen took Dawros to complete the double. No one selected Drybob as the second leg; consequently, the pool, £455 5s. (less ten per cent.) was divided among those who had taken Solid Pact and Dawros. Had one investor coupled Drybob with Solid Pact he would have netted £204 17s. for his 5s. investment, while the 13 backers of Solid Pact and Dawros would have received £15 15s. This, I consider, should be clear to all concerned.

There has been no racing at Limerick since last March, and the resumption there on Thursday next will be particularly welcome. It is an attractive mixed programme, with the £200 Munster National 'Chase as the main attraction. There is no shortage of horses in the South, and sport all round promises to be brisk. A further opportunity of discussing the meeting will be afforded when the declared runners are known.

CLOSING OF RACES

Owners and trainers are reminded that entries close to-morrow (Wednesday), with Mr. F. Harold Clarke, 9 Hume street, Dublin, for seven races to be run at Leopardstown on Saturday, November 11. They include the Leopardstown Handicap Steeplechase (2½m.) of £200, and the Liffey Handicap of £200 (1m.).

8,400 Gns. For Unraced Juvenile At Newmarket

ALTHOUGH the average price for yearlings sold at Newmarket Sales yesterday was below normal, the highest bid being 2,100 guineas by Mr. H. H. Leven for the filly by Gold Bridge out of Berystina, there was keen demand for two-year-old and three-year-old fillies likely to become useful brood mares. Lord Derby sent up eight, which made an aggregate of 36,600 guineas, an average of 4,575 guineas, top price being 8,400 guineas paid by Mr. M. H. Benson for the two-year-old Solitaire by Solario out of Coronal. Solitaire had never raced owing to an injured foot.

Mr. David Vard, a well-known Dublin owner, had a successful sale when four of his yearlings made an average of just over 757 guineas. Top price of these was 1,250 guineas, which F. Winter paid on behalf of Mr. Bartholomew for a colt by Panorama—Grey Velvet. This yearling is bred for exceptional speed, as his dam is by Diomedes, a great sprinter, as was Panorama.

The total aggregate for the day was 77,240 guineas for 123 lots, an average of 628 guineas. Principal sales were:—

ATHLETIC UNITY

THE N.A.C.A. alone could put Irish athletics on the map of the world, and when they put athletics on the map they put Ireland on the map, said General Eoin O'Duffy, President of the Association, at a reunion in Dundalk, when he received from Superintendent T. S. McDonagh, chairman, Louth Branch, a cheque for £437 16s. 10d., being the net proceeds of the two-days' Athletics Championships at Dundalk. This amount was after deducting of all outlay from the gross receipts of £624 11s. 9d.

General O'Duffy said they all desired unity in athletics, and as far as he, personally, was concerned he would be prepared to concede much by way of local authority to have a team representing all Ireland at the next Olympic Games, as at Los Angeles in 1932.

CARE OF THE BLIND

But for the work of the National Council for the Blind of Ireland and the Blind Welfare Association (Northern Ireland), the average lot of the 12,000 blind people in the country would be drab and colourless. A very important part of the work is done by home teachers who go into the homes of blind people and give practical instruction in the Braille system and handicrafts. The annual Teachers' Conference was formally opened at The Country Shop, Dublin, yesterday, by Professor T. G. Moorhead.

The conference will conclude today. Yesterday, Mr. F. S. Lavery, hon. opthalmic surgeon, gave two lectures, and Mr. G. Holland, manager of the wireless department of the G.E.C., gave a talk on wireless.

OLD DUBLIN SOCIETY

This year the Old Dublin Society completes the first decade of its existence. Last night the Society held its annual general meeting, and the Hon. Secretary, Mr. Patrick Meehan, in his annual report, reviewed the work of these ten years.

The President, Dr. George A. Little, and other officers were unanimously re-elected.

The President's medal, for the best paper read during the last session, was presented to Mr. Joseph W. Hammond.

Ocean Swell For Cup At Newmarket

A FIELD of seven will contest the Jockey Club Cup at Newmarket to-day, and, though the class is generally mediocre, an interesting race is in prospect. Ocean Swell, winner of the Derby and a good third in the St. Leger, represents good classic form. He is bred to stay, and should outpace such rivals as the improved Historic and Bright Lady, the latter of whom put up such a splendid fight against Umiddad in the Gold Cup.

Dealings in G.N.R. Stock

QUIET conditions prevailed on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, but, as now so usual, chief attention was paid to Irish securities, and small buying put prices a shade higher in some directions. Great Northern Railways were again favoured, but small irregular changes took place among local industrials.

Home Government Funds held up well, and Land Bond issues inclined to harden. 3½ per cent. War Loan showed no change. The feature of Banks was the strong demand for Munster and Leinsters, which resulted in a sharp recovery of 1s. 6d. to 133s. 6d. Guinness Units, on quiet support, added pence at 134s. 9d.

Most interest centred in Great Northern Rails. The Ord. improved to 28 and the Pref. to 44⅞, while the Guar. made headway to 63⅝. Great Southern issues were neglected.

E. and J. Burke, Ltd., are paying off three years' arrears of dividend up to April 30th, 1943, but the market was rather disappointed, as it had been hoped that all the arrears would have been paid off this time. The Ord. drooped to 7/6 and the Pref. eased to 11/6.

Alliance Gas Ord. shaded off to 23/-, but Arklow Pottery Pref. gained 1/- at 28/6 and Cement Deb. advanced to 110½. Irish Steel Ord. further improved to 10/-, but Irish Cinema Pref. and Irish Sugar Pref. both eased slightly in a small way.

B.A.T. Ord. held 117/3, and Imperial Tobacco Ord. gained 1/3 at 159/9. Coats Ord. quoted 47/9, Dunlop Rubbers 46/7½, and Hawker Siddeley Ord. 17/7½.

Blyvoor Find

A downthrow fault in the Blyvoors gold reef has disclosed visible gold in quantity, writes our Johannesburg correspondent. Blyvoors main drive in the west footwall to connect number one and two shafts has encountered a downthrow fault, which brought the reef into the drive farther west. This appears to be something of a lucky strike for the phenomenally rich Far West Rand mine, Blyvoor, writes our mining correspondent.

The westerly drive is being put through to facilitate and speed-up the opening up of the ore body between the two shafts. Development results for the September quarter will be published this month. The mine is expected to maintain its unbroken record of 100 per cent. payability, with values between 700 and 800 inch dwt.

Holiday in Canada.—Yesterday was Thanksgiving Day in Canada, and all the Stock Markets were closed.

London Firm

LONDON Stock Markets generally ruled firm yesterday, but best prices were not always maintained. Shipping issues remain prominent still under the influence of Lord Leathers' statement regarding shipbuilding in the next few years. Indo-China Defd. were up 1¼ to 14¼, and Anchor Line 1s. 6d. better at 56s. 6d. Prices generally were under the best.

Decca Records reached a peak of 41s. 6d. before reacting to 40s. 9d. De La Rue Ord. provided another good spot among equities, rising $\frac{5}{16}$ to 9⅝. Attocks lost 1s. to 69s. on the chairman's denial of the rumour of an offer from the Burmah Co.

In the foreign market continued good buying caused a fresh advance in Brazilians. United of Havana, 1906, Debs. suffered from profit-taking after reaching 32 in the morning. The closing price of 30½ represented a net loss of ½ on balance. B.A. Western 4 p.c. were 10s. better at 49½ on interest payment.

INDIAN TEA PROFITS

Problems of increasing costs and taxation continue to affect Indian tea companies. The General Ceylon Rubber and Tea Estates, Ltd., in its annual report for the year to December 31st, 1943, shows that, while profits fell from £77,657 to £45,692, taxation only required £25,000, as against £56,000, with the result that the amount available for appropriation to reserves and for distribution is almost unchanged. The dividend for the year is maintained at 5 p.c., while £5,000 is again transferred to general reserve.

The chairman points out that, compared with 1942, the 1943 season was unfavourable for tea, but the crops for both years show a satisfactory increase in comparison with 1941. Rubber crops also in 1942 and 1943 showed progressively substantial increases over 1941 as a result of intensive tapping of certain areas under the Government Capital Compensation Scheme. For 1944 the estimates are framed to deal with 2,440,000lb. tea and 2,229,000lb. rubber. The capital of the company is £306,300 in £1 Ordinary shares, which are quoted at about 17/-.

RALEIGH HOLDINGS

The £1 shares of Raleigh Cycle Holdings Company, Ltd., have been changing hands at around 80/-, after having been as high as 87/6 in July and as low as 78/- since. At this price they offer a return of 5 p.c. on the 20 p.c. distributions of the past three years. The company holds a commanding position in the cycle industry, and its record is one of continuing prosperity. It was formed in 1934, when it acquired the whole of the issued share capital of the Raleigh Cycle Company.

The operating company last year purchased the whole of the issued capital of Rudge Whitworth, Ltd. Its sales are handled by 4,500 dealers in these islands and foreign countries, and its export trade, though, naturally, restricted in the war years, has played a most important part in its activities.

The holding company has an issued capital of £2,250,000, of which £1,250,000 is in £1 Ordinary shares. In pre-war years, bonuses of 2½ and 5 p.c. were added to the 20 p.c. dividends. Each year net profits have been substantially above the amount distributed, and the operating company has built up a reserve of £750,000, its net liquid assets recorded in the last balance sheet totalling £1,122,319.

AN AID TO MARKETS

Much has been written lately regarding the advantages of a small nominal value for stocks and shares in aiding market ability in these days when there are thousands of investors with comparatively small holdings where a quarter-of-a-century ago there were hundreds. There can be little doubt that the smaller the nominal value with a consequent smaller unit of market value, the more attractive is a security to prospective purchasers.

TRADE BARELY STEADY

NEW YORK, MONDAY.—The Stock Exchange opening tone was strong, with trading moderately active. Assorted favourites advanced further, although many of the leaders were unable to surmount the light profit-taking on the recent broad advance. Considerable irregularity developed after the opening, and dealings towards mid-day slowed down appreciably. While assorted specialities continued to register new high levels for the year, the leaders were generally lower after four successive rising sessions. Losses of fractions to more than one point predominated towards the close, which was barely steady. The day's sales, including 611,000 shares, comprised 836 issues, of which 147 advanced, 507 declined and 182 remained unchanged.

Irish News in Brief

New Peace Commissioner.—Mr. Patrick Joseph Keogh, Kenilworth road, Rathgar, Dublin, has been appointed a Peace Commissioner. Mr. Keogh is treasurer of the Irish Bookmakers' Association.

Drowned in Canal.—The body of a 6½ years old schoolboy, Anthony Smithers, 448 Mourne road, Dublin, was found in the Grand Canal, near Herberton Bridge, yesterday, by Guards who had been carrying out dragging operations since Friday.

C.U.S. Union.—At the annual general meeting of the Catholic University School Union the following officers were elected:—President, Professor J. J. Hogan; vice-president, Dr. J. F. Larchet; hon. secretaries, Rev. F. Randall, S.M.; Mr. R. M. Dobbyn, and treasurer, Mr. E. J. Kehily.

Export Ban on Hunters.—Longford County Committee of Agriculture has passed a resolution, asking the Government to remove the export ban on "made" horses, as there is a surplus of young horses at present, and they cannot be sold at fairs at economic prices.

Dockers' Holiday Claim.—Preliminary discussions opened yesterday, under the auspices of the Department of Industry and Commerce, concerning the Dublin dockers' holiday claim. Three unions and the shipping companies were represented. Mr. D. Sullivan presided.

Fatal Cycle Collision.—A verdict of accidental death was returned at an inquest in the Meath Hospital, Dublin, yesterday, on Robert Lambert, Eden Farm, Dundrum, who died following injuries received when he collided with a milk cart while cycling. The driver of the cart was exonerated from blame.

£400 Court Charge.—Mrs. Annie Coffey (30), 16 Leinster square, Rathmines, was remanded yesterday until to-day in Dublin District Court on a charge of obtaining sums, amounting to £400, by means of a trick from Mrs. Sarah Horowitz at the same address.

Society of St. John Bosco.—Professor B. F. Shields was elected President of the Society of St. John Bosco, at the sixth annual meeting held in Jury's Hotel, Dublin, yesterday. It was stated in the annual report that the new clubs opened at Greystones and Howth brought the number of boys under the care of the Society to 1,200.

Receivers Sentenced. Judge O'Connor, at Cork Circuit Court, yesterday, sentenced William Geoghegan, 10 Step lane, and William Riordan, no fixed abode, each to 12 months' imprisonment for receiving stolen property. A verdict of not guilty was recorded in charges against them of stealing property, valued at £148, from the Salvation Army Hotel, Camden Quay, Cork.

No Export Licence.—Alfred L'Estrange (37), ship's fireman, North Strand, and James Nolan (40), dock labourer, Montague court, pleaded guilty in Dublin District Court to exporting five dozen bottles of brandy without a licence. L'Estrange was sentenced to two months' imprisonment, and Nolan to three months' imprisonment, not to be enforced if they entered into bail.

DUBLIN THEATRES

Abbey.—"The Glorious Uncertainty," Brinsley MacNamara's comedy, is being continued

Olympia.—The revival by Shelah Richards and Maurice Walsh of "Marrowbone Lane," Dr. Robert Collis's play of life in the Dublin slums, seemed justified by the dimensions of the crowd which attended the Olympia Theatre, Dublin, last night. There is splendid acting, notably by Maureen Delaney, Cathleen Murphy, Seamus Healy, Sheila Carty, Isobel Cowser, Dan O'Herlihy, and Shelah Richards.

Gaiety.—"Arsenic and Old Lace" continues to be a big attraction to the theatre public. It is one of the best plays of modern times.

Royal.—"Royal Bouquet" is probably the best all-round variety show the Theatre Royal has presented. The "Nedser and Nuala" sketch is always first-rate entertainment; Noel Purcell's monologues are deservedly popular; May Devitt, Joseph McLaughlin and Sean Mooney look after the musical side of the programme to everybody's satisfaction, and the "Children's Corner" is always a masterpiece of impromptu fooling.

Capitol.—"Autumn Leaves," the current show at this theatre, provides a nice mixture of dancing and song, with the popular singer, Martin Crosby, at his best. Kay Condron is another pleasing singer, and Fred Doyle leads the chorus in some tuneful numbers.

Queen's.—"Rio Romance," brimful of haunting music, bright comedy, entertaining sketches, and possessing an all-round appeal for theatre-goers, again holds the boards at this theatre. "Lucky Days," the supporting film, provides excellent comedy.

BETTER BUS SERVICES

Wider buses and plenty of them, better ventilation, better seating accommodation, and no more standing passengers are some of the improvements in the city transport services envisaged by the Dublin United Transport Company, whose public relations officer, Mr. L. A. Luke, spoke on "Transport Prospects" at yesterday's luncheon of the Dublin Rotary Club, at the Gresham Hotel. He suggested several novelties which may appear in post-war Dublin buses, such as a microphone on the conductor's platform for announcing the name of each stopping place, and even radio sets in the longer distance buses.

The company's plans for the future, he said, include transport services to enable city workers to enjoy the pleasures of seaside and country; the resumption and extension of buses from city areas to the seaside and country at reduced fares.

In many Dublin suburbs they had to operate circuitously, and he hoped the town-planners in the future would give the company direct routes which would mean reduced mileage and reduced fares

£2,633 THEFT ALLEGED

Christopher Hehir (23), a native of Limerick, and Desmond Logan (19), a native of Dundalk, were remanded in Dublin District Court yesterday until October 16th next on charges of breaking and entering premises in the Suffolk street area in September last and stealing goods and money, including £2,633, mostly in currency notes, the property of Emil Hirsch, managing director of Ribbons, Ltd., 24 Suffolk street.

The accused men were arrested in Cork.

Detective Sergeant Moran said that when charged and cautioned the accused men pleaded guilty to all the charges except one.

Detective Officer J. Farrelly said that £700 of the money stolen had not been recovered.

High Courts' Calendars

FOR hearing in the Michaelmas law sittings, which will open to-day, 28 appeals are in the Supreme Court list. The appeal of the Minister for Defence against a £27,150 judgment consequent on the destruction of Santry Court by fire while occupied by the military, is one of them; another is on behalf of a Dublin labourer from the findings of a jury against him in his action against Dublin Corporation for damages for the death of his son, who was buried in an excavation that it was said he had made at a Corporation dump to recover cinders, coke and bits of coal.

Colonel de las Morenas, Upper Pembroke street, Dublin, appeals from a High Court judgment in favour of Saorstat and Continental Steamship Company, Ltd., who had claimed £2,600 for loss of freight on 52 horses from Dublin to Lisbon, stating that by a contract between them and Colonel de las Morenas they reserved space for the horses on the s.s. Assaroe, and that Colonel de las Morenas failed to deliver them.

Colonel de las Morenas stated in an affidavit that he was head of the Spanish Military Commission in Ireland for the purchase of horses for the Spanish Army. The horses had been made available for shipment, but the ship sailed without them because a navicert had not been issued in time.

Joseph Spencer, Tramore, appeals from a judgment of the High Court holding that he is liable to assessment to income tax in respect of profits arising from the production of tomatoes in his nursery garden.

Irish Steel Bolts, Ltd., Upper Grand Canal street, Dublin, have served notice of appeal from a judgment which held that the Federated Employers' Insurance Association, Ltd., were not liable to indemnify them against a judgment for £1,750 and costs in favour of an employee who had had his hand crushed in the company's works.

An appeal is being taken on behalf of Mrs. Frances Harrison, Lower Rathmines road, Dublin, from so much of an order of the Bankruptcy Court that directed her to pay £30 as part of the costs of her examination in proceedings in the case of Sydney E. Cooper, a bankrupt.

TRIAL MOTIONS

Messrs. W. and R. Jacob and Co., Ltd., Dublin, seek a new trial of the action in which a jury found in favour of Michael Corcoran, St. Thomas's road, Fairbrothers' Fields, Dublin, in his claim for alleged slander and assault.

A new trial is asked by John Evans, Church road, Greystones, of an action brought against him by Mrs. Mary Power, Ballybricken, Waterford, in whose favour a jury awarded £1,023 damages for the loss of her husband, who was injured when travelling in a lorry owned by Mr. Evans.

There is a new trial of an action in which a jury found for Patrick Coogan, groom, Liffeybank, Island Bridge, Dublin, and assessed damages at £600, in his claim against Joseph Roddy, taxi-owner, Vincent street, Dublin, for injuries. Another new trial motion is on behalf of Peter F. Nugent, motor engineer, Rutland place, Dublin, against whom a jury awarded £1,936 damages in an action by John Joseph Hand, Ballymastone, Donabate (17), for injuries.

CRIMINAL APPEALS

William H. Coleman, Merrion square, Dublin, seeks leave to appeal from a conviction at the Dublin Circuit Criminal Court for unlawfully using an instrument or other means with intent to procure a miscarriage, and from sentence of 15 years. George Ian McCabe, St. Helen's road, Booterstown, is asking for leave to appeal from a conviction for unlawfully using an instrument or other means with intent to procure a miscarriage, and from sentence of four years. Edward Cecil Flynn, Merrion square, Dublin, is seeking leave to appeal from a sentence of eight years, passed on him on the charge of using an instrument or other means with intent to procure a miscarriage.

There are two applications for leave to appeal from decisions of the Special Criminal Court, in one the sentence being twelve years' penal servitude and twelve strokes of the cat. This appears to be the first time in which the Court of Criminal Appeal will be called on to review such a sentence.

Two applications are to make absolute conditional orders of certiorari to quash the refusal of a District Justice to grant certificates of suitability of premises as bookmakers' offices; two are to make absolute conditional orders to quash convictions in relation to the purchase and the possession of salmon in Youghal district. Approximately seventy outstanding Military Service Pension motions will be listed in due course.

In the High Court also there are several injunction actions, partnership actions, mortgage suits, and a variety of other matters. There are four will suits, a matrimonial suit, a libel action and a crim con case. There are 18 non-jury actions, including a libel suit, a slander suit and a breach of promise suit.

AUCTION SALES

SHOTGUN CARTRIDGES.

EMERGENCY POWERS (RETAIL DISTRIBUTION OF SHOTGUN CARTRIDGES) AMENDING ORDER No. 232 DATED 25th JULY, 1944.

Under above Order, holders of Limited Firearms Certificates were enabled to purchase during the period August/December 12 shotgun cartridges, and holders of £2 Firearm Certificates were enabled to purchase 25 cartridges.

Complaints have been received from holders of both classes of certificates that they have been unable to secure these supplies from local dealers.

Many dealers still have stocks of cartridges available for distribution. Below we give a list of those who have advised us they have such stocks, and are willing to supply forthwith users who hitherto have been unable to secure the full quota.

Applications will be entertained only from those who have not received the full quota, and these should be accompanied by current Firearm Certificate, together with cash and appropriate sum for carriage. Applications should be made to any of the following dealers, who will supply as long as stocks last:—

OBITUARY

MR. WILLIAM C. MACKEY

William Chalmers Mackey, whose death has occurred at Warrenpoint, was an actor of considerable ability, and probably the last of the old Irish troupers. At the age of 12 he established a dramatic club in Newry, and nearly sixty years ago he produced "The Colleen Bawn." The next year he played "Con" in "The Shaughraun," and the name of the schoolboy actor became a household word in Co. Down. Later he formed a company which toured the country for many years, and is still going strong under the management of his son, Rory.

WEDDING

Crooks—Hart.—The marriage took place yesterday at Holy Trinity Church, Culmore, Derry, of the Rev. Louis Barden Crooks, son of the Rev. S. B. Crooks and Mrs. Crooks, St. Stephen's Rectory, Belfast, to Miss Marion Vaughan Hart, only daughter of Lieut.-Colonel G. V. Hart, D.L., and Mrs. Hart, Ballymagard, Derry. The Rev. G. B. Crooks, father of the bridegroom, assisted by the Dean of Derry, and the Rev. J. Porter, Rector of the Parish Church, officiated. The best man was Sir Basil McFarland, Bart. The bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Young, Miss Barbara Stevenson, Miss Vivien Gillespie and Miss Jane Tuke, cousins of the bride.

"THE UNITED NATIONS"

This war has been full of surprises; its secrets also have been well kept. The news, therefore, that Mr. Winston Churchill and his Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, arrived in Moscow yesterday need surprise nobody. The purpose of their visit has not yet been made public; but there can be small doubt that, although the presence of fighting chiefs suggests a military background, it also has some connection with the report of the Dumbarton Oaks Conference, which has just been published. The American newspapers are notoriously enterprising. The delegates who met at Dumbarton Oaks and outlined the framework of a new order for the conduct of the world undertook that nothing would be published until yesterday. Their report was said to be "unpublishable, unbroadcastable, and untransmissible" before the appointed hour. Yet a New York journal was able to give its readers a reasonably adequate summary of the document twenty-four hours in advance. The scheme which has been formulated at Dumbarton Oaks provides for the constitution of what, in effect, will be another League of Nations. Under this scheme Britain, the United States, Soviet Russia and China would have the primary responsibility for the maintenance of world peace. Apparently, France would be invited to join the "Big Four" at a later stage. The report suggests that the new organisation should be entitled "The United Nations," the members of which will be drawn from "all peace-loving countries." There will be a "Security Council," charged with the preservation of peace and security. The "Big Four," with the addition of France, will have permanent seats on this Council. Six other States will have temporary seats, elected for two years apiece, and three will retire every year. The Council will have power to investigate any dispute that might lead to an international quarrel; and any State, whether or not a member of the organisation, will be entitled to bring such a dispute to the Council's notice. The Council will have power, if necessary, to take such military, aerial, or naval action as might be necessary in the circumstances, and all members of "The United Nations" will be pledged to make available to the Council armed forces, facilities and help which might be necessary to keep the peace. Justifiable disputes normally would be referred to an international court of justice. There are twelve "chapters" in the proposed International Charter, the first of which declares that the primary object is to maintain peace, to take collective steps for the prevention and removal of threats to peace and the stoppage of aggression. It also lays down as general principles the development of friendly relations between the peoples, the achievement of international co-operation in the solution of economic, social and other humanitarian problems, and the provision of a centre for the co-ordination of united action in the achievement of these common ends.

President Roosevelt already has expressed his satisfaction at the measure of agreement that was reached on so difficult a subject in so short a time at Dumbarton Oaks. "The task," he said, "of planning the great design of security and peace had been well begun." For the moment, details do not matter. What does matter is the fact that an attempt is being made to save mankind from the horrors of another war. It must be admitted—and the fact must be faced frankly—that equally sincere steps were taken more than twenty-five years ago, when the late President Wilson secured the embodiment in the Treaty of Versailles of the Covenant of the League of Nations. The League, as conceived by President Wilson, was an admirable thing; but it failed. History will apportion the blame for its failure; but the one outstanding fact is that less than a quarter of a century after its establishment the world went to war again. Will the scheme adumbrated at Dumbarton Oaks guarantee the world against a repetition of the mistakes that were made between the two wars? Only time can answer that question. The first essential is to ensure that there shall be complete unity of purpose between the High Contracting Parties—and we presume that Messrs. Churchill and Eden have gone to Moscow partly, at any rate, in order to make sure of Marshal Stalin's wholehearted support. The League of Nations failed, as we think, for two reasons. In the first place, it had no sanctions by means of which to enforce its decisions. Notable cases in point were provided on two occasions—first, when the Japanese invaded Manchuria, and, second, when the Italians invaded Abyssinia. Apparently, the Dumbarton Oaks scheme does provide for some as yet undefined form of international militia; but this aspect of the problem obviously presents the most formidable difficulties. Without the active and complete support of all the members of the new organisation, success would be impossible. Experience between the wars, and, indeed, throughout history, has taught that the friend of to-day may be the enemy of to-morrow. Self-interest, unhappily, continues to govern the conduct of nations; and so long as the idea of national sovereignty prevails, the establishment of a really efficient international force will not be easy. The second reason for the League's failure was the fact that in the early stages, at any rate, the defeated nations were excluded from its councils. Thus, they were bound in no way by its Charter; and by the time when they were admitted to its ranks much of the harm already had been done. All proposals for an international organisation to keep world peace must be, in the nature of things, counsels of perfection. Human nature is one of the few things that cannot be changed by human machinery. Nevertheless, it is encouraging to find that the leaders of the Allied Powers already are concerning themselves with the essentials of such a baffling problem. It is said that Great Britain and the United States ultimately are as one in their general outlook towards the future. The British leaders' visit to Moscow probably will determine whether or not Russia sees the new world through the same eyes.

HEAVEN knows I worry enough—indeed why should I not, saddled as I am for all time with responsibility of leading the human race. What I do not quite see is why anybody should worry also. I do not, mark you, say 'anybody else' for that would involve serious misstatement, a confusion as between the human and the sublime, some bond of identity as between the anthropoid and the anthropomorphic. But you probably saw this much in a letter the other day:

> "It is well for readers to know that on next Sunday there will be a symphony concert at the Cork Opera House, which will cost the organisers, at least, £145. For the hour's relay Radio Eireann pays £15. That is the encouragement which our native Government gives to culture and music."

It is in my opinion not well for readers to know anything of the kind. The whole thing is too vague. Is the £15 included in the £145? Is the net cost to the organisers £130? How many organisers are there? If there be, alive and well in this world, a group of people sufficiently wealthy to devote £130 of their funds in order that Cork may have a symphony concert on a Sunday, why should the State unduly subsidise such an activity? Why not charge an admission fee and thus reduce or efface the loss to the organisers? What is the distinction suggested as between 'culture' and 'music'? Where, pray, is this Cork? What unworthy sneer lurks in this reference to "our native (sic) Government"? Who said they were natives? Natives of where? Cork? How can a measly £15 be described as "encouragement"?

Truth to tell, I do not know what to make of ye. What on earth do ye expect Radio Eireann to pay £15 for? A . . . . a . . . . . lay?

Is This Denmark?

The nations will be now have learnt—possibly from our issue of Saturday last—that there are 'dens' in that other of our provincial towns, Dublin. Intoxicating potions (6,175 under proof, or one small one to the bucket of water, as stated by our special contributor) are administered nightly to certain of our citizens, the mixture being further diluted with 'coffee,' or net strength 9,885 under proof. This is a terrible scandal and is characteristic of the hypocrisy that rots this land of yours. You pay yearly great sums of money to the League of Nations in token of your—bah!—horror of organised vice, of your readiness to subscribe to international conventions designed to eradicate it. And yet—this foul fungus, this . . . . this . . . . . unspeakable traffic rears its ugly head under your very nose!

Another thing that is going on in Dublin—alas, with my own eyes I have seen it—is smoking. Pipes, cheroots, fags, cigars, butts—you see them everywhere, clamped in old man's iron mouth, drooped from maiden's lips. That the same game is going on in Cork is a thing I do not for a moment doubt. God forgive you, that is all I can say.

Undue Modesty

Indeed, your new-found ideas came to my mind the other day when, in the 'personal' intelligence I read this entry:

"Miss ——— ——— has left Ireland for the Continent."

Asia, perhaps? One of the Americas? Australia? Is it a secret? If so, fair enough, but why not write "has left Ireland for one of the other Continents"? Do you laugh? What makes you think Ireland is not a Continent? What has America got that you have not—except perhaps more Irish?).

TOWARDS TO-MORROW

I—INTRODUCTORY : AN INVITATION

LIKE a broad belt across the middle of this article is a brief account of recent utterances by the Government on the subject of post-war planning. They furnish a strong assurance that the problems of the peace are not being overlooked; but we hope that we shall not be treated as hostile witnesses if we suggest that they are not so definite as they might be.

The phrase, "in principle," is the phrase that matters. It is not enough to have approved plans in principle. Something concrete is what matters. For all that this newspaper knows, the Government may possess an elaborate and detailed programme to cover every aspect of the nation's activity; but, if so, as we have urged more than once, it would be wise to take the nation into its confidence.

It has no cause to fear the consequences of such disclosures. On the two occasions on which it has broken silence—the White Paper on rural electrification and the Arterial Drainage Bill—Press and public alike have given approval to its views.

It may be that similarly finished plans exist for several other departments of State activity; but, if so, they are somewhat slow to appear—and the war must come to an end sooner or later.

These are the circumstances in which the Irish Times calls upon its readers for their views on the subject of Ireland's post-war reconstruction. We accept the Government's word that it has plans on certain subjects ready. But it has not produced them for the public inspection. We do not blame the Government: it cannot afford to take chances. But private people, or even people in "semi-official" positions, can afford to express their views where a Government cannot; and in that conviction we venture to offer a lead to the Government.

Every Tuesday, for an indefinite period, we propose to submit an article on one or another aspect of national planning. Each will be contributed by an authority on his particular subject; whether he signs his name or not will be a matter for the contributor.

Our purpose is twofold:

(1) To assist the Government (if assistance is needed) in the preparation of post-war plans, and

(2) To answer the charge that a newspaper's criticism is always destructive, never constructive.

We trust that readers will take full notice of this venture, and will not hesitate to express their views. Letters will be welcome, and, as we hope, will form the most valuable part of the weekly "feature." The more concise they are the better. Signed letters will naturally carry more weight than those which appear under a nom-de-guerre.

CAVEAT!

At the same time, let us offer a word of warning to our readers:

There can be no such thing as a precise plan for any department of national activity.

Neither the Government, nor Old Moore's Almanac, nor ourselves, can be certain of the country's conditions five years from now, or even twelve months from now. There is nothing to hinder the publication of an apparently fool-proof "blue-print" for agriculture or industry or transport which will withstand the most penetrating criticism, not merely of experts, but of the forgotten men whose livelihoods might be expected to depend upon it—the farmers and farm-labourers, the industrialists and factory-workers. Yet that plan, admirable as it may appear, depends entirely on the existence of conditions on which as yet we can only speculate. Take the question of housing. It is easy enough to argue that Dublin, even before the war, needed 30,000 new dwellings before her people could be said to be rehoused in reasonable decency. But what will Dublin's conditions be five years from now? How many more people will have arrived from the provinces? How many will have returned from work in England and elsewhere overseas? Will the materials which we cannot now supply from our own resources be available in the practically near future?

The answers to these questions depend on circumstances outside the sphere of any simple, short-sighted, hard-and-fast housing plan; indeed, they depend on circumstances which are largely outside our national control.

Take transport. Here again we must guess. There is no great point in thinking out a system of transport until we can estimate the kind of freight that is to be carried, and the direction in which it is to be carried; for the layman is apt to forget that goods, rather than passengers, are the mainstay of any transport system. In other words, a comprehensive plan for agriculture and industry ought to precede the formulation of a transport policy. But our agricultural and industrial policy depends not merely on our attitude towards the outside world, but on the outside world's attitude towards us. And that may involve other factors than the strictly economic; it may become a matter of high politics. These "imponderables" are vital to any planning, even in its most limited aspects

Take yet another case, affecting every branch of the nation's future life. It is reckoned that about 300,000 citizens of the twenty-six counties are at present employed outside the State's frontiers. Will they return or will they not? Nobody can be sure; yet it is clear that our post-war planning depends in no small measure upon the answer to that question. And the biggest "imponderable" of all is: Do we plan for an Ireland of twenty-six or of thirty-two counties—for a lop-sided, preponderantly agricultural State, or for a balanced nation possessing heavy industries as well as agriculture, and having its eyes fixed accordingly upon the ends of the earth?

WHY PLAN?

In these vague conditions, is there any point in planning at all? Surely there is. It may not be possible to evolve the perfect State; but, at least, there are certain defects in the social and administrative system which cry aloud for rectification, and can be rectified, not, indeed, without trouble, but without reference to events outside our immediate control or calculation. One need only look at all the fuss there has been about County Managers during the last year or so to realise that something is sadly amiss with the traditional system of local government—and, by the way, local government matters a great deal to the creature comfort of the average citizen. The system, in fact, is tottering, and Mr. de Valera's Government has been making spasmodic efforts to patch it up. But why patch up an old system? Why not take the courageous course of replacing it by a new one? In other words, why not re-plan the organisation of local government? Our contributors will have suggestions to offer—suggestions which may not be new to careful readers of this newspaper, but are certainly bolder than any that the Customs House has ventured so far.

Or we can plan, without reference to unknown factors, for better and more extensive services of public health. Indeed, we must; for Great Britain has already given a lead in this respect, and Ireland cannot afford to submit herself to an unfavourable comparison. Here again the Irish Times may be capable of helping.

But the real argument for planning, even if much has to be taken for granted, is that other countries are doing it, and Ireland must not be caught on the wrong foot.

On the same day on which Dr. Ryan saw no "useful purpose" in trade agreements with Great Britain, it was reported that Great Britain had arranged to buy Australia's exportable surplus of butter, cheese, beef, mutton, lamb and eggs for varying periods. That agreement implies that Australia has been doing a certain amount of planning. Our own country simply cannot afford to be behind the fair. It ought to know where it is going, and to make the best possible arrangements for getting there at the quickest possible speed. It cannot—we repeat this—be certain of anything in the post-war world, but it can take a chance, and if the chance turns out badly so much the worse. There is no reason, however, to assume that an Irish Government will be bad at guessing.

What The Government Has Said

On August 15th Mr. de Valera told an Ennis audience that the Government had plans made for the post-war period, and possessed reports from experts on such matters as "agriculture, dairying, poultry-raising, transport, and the causes of death among livestock."

On September 19th Mr. de Valera, replying to Deputy Alderman Martin O'Sullivan, in Dail Eireann, said that the Special Cabinet Committee appointed to direct the post-war planning activities of all Departments had already considered and approved in principle a large number of departmental schemes. Matters covered by these schemes included agriculture, land division, afforestation, fisheries, housing, and other constructional works, transport and communications, and general industrial development.

On September 26th the Minister for Finance informed Dail Eireann that one of the main objects of a large number of schemes approved of in principle by the Cabinet Committee set up to direct the post-war planning activities of all Departments was the provision of employment and housing, to be available to all citizens, whether they had remained at home during the emergency or returned after it.

On September 27th Dr. Ryan, Minister for Agriculture, told Dail Eireann that he was not satisfied that in the present circumstances any useful purpose would be served by initiating negotiations (with Great Britain) or inquiries in respect of export trade in agricultural produce in the post-war period.

On the following day (September 28th) Mr. James Everett asked the Minister for Finance if the Government had any plan for social insurance comparable with that which had just been announced by the British Government. Mr. O'Kelly replied: "I cannot say anything."

On the same day (September 28th) the Minister for Defence said that he was not in a position to publish detailed plans regarding the demobilisation of men who had joined the defence forces for the emergency, the settlement of such men in civilian life, or the financial provisions for such men.

POTATO PEST DANGER

The Colorado beetle — dreaded enemy of potato growers—is reported to be rampant on the Continent, and latest news indicates that it has spread northward and has been found on the coast of Normandy.

A year ago an official warning against the beetle was issued in this country. It is a native of the State of Colorado, as its name indicates, but spread to France about 25 years ago. Last year the Department of Agriculture stated that there was a grave danger that the beetle might reach this country, but at that time it was not known how near Ireland the pest had spread. The report that it has been seen on farms on the French coast adds point to the year-old warning, particularly as the beetles are known to be capable of flying long distances.

The grub of the beetle is reddish-yellow, and the beetle itself, which is just under half-an-inch long, has black stripes along its yellowish back. They winter in the soil, coming out in the spring to attack foliage of potato plants. Anyone finding beetles, or grubs suspected of being associated with the Colorado beetle, should send them to the Department of Agriculture, with details of the place where they were found.

As far as can be ascertained, this country always has been free from the pest, although there have been outbreaks in England—where it is a notifiable pest—from time to time.

The pest is considered so serious that the Department of Agriculture has power to destroy—and pay compensation for—affected crops. Special spraying compounds are essential to fight the beetle, but these are available in this country for use should an attack be reported.

Preventive measures against the accidental introduction of the beetles have been in force for a number of years. These include a total ban on potatoes from France, and a ban on all plants and vegetables grown within fifty miles of a place where the pest has been found. All imported plants must be accompanied by health certificates issued by the agricultural authorities in the exporting country.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Willkie and Lye

IN August of this year Len Lye, who made the March of Time film of Eire last autumn, went to New York on two assignments. The first was to make educational films in Basic English for the instruction of Chinese and Malayan natives. The second was to see Wendell Willkie.

For many years Len Lye has cherished a new philosophy. He calls it—"Individual Happiness Now." To his friends he refers to it as "the rig," which is an abbreviation of "rigmarole."

Throughout the world Len has delivered his "rig" to all kinds of unlikely people. Here, among others, he contacted a well-known prelate, an ex-detective officer, and a young business man.

The "rig" met with varying receptions. Some people understood not one word. Some were bored, and separated themselves as quickly as they could from this strange, lanky man, with the bald head, who wore a handkerchief round his neck more often than a tie. Others were impressed, but confessed their inability to live in the way that Len suggested—a way, incidentally, that he followed himself without deviation.

Trail of Laughter

Len used to talk for hours with an incredible, halting, incoherent persuasiveness. I have seen him sitting on the steps of a cinema, genuinely oblivious to the amazed passers-by, talking about "the rig," gesturing vaguely, his hat on the back of his head, the handkerchief round his neck. Then, suddenly, he would come to life again, laugh delightedly, without a trace of self-consciousness, seeing the people staring at him, and buy a ragged little boy a huge bag of sweets.

Everybody who knew Len in those three months last autumn, probably had more fun than they have ever had in their lives. They found themselves doing crazy things in the public streets that they would never have dared to do before. Wherever Len went he left a trail of laughter behind him—the laughter of people who had forgotten their dignity for a moment, and suddenly become young again, and gay.

The Talker

But about one thing Len was always serious. Whenever he spoke about Wendell Willkie there was no fooling and no ragging about.

He had read Willkie's book, "One World." He followed Willkie's career very closely. Sometimes, when he was talking about his "rig," he would stop in despair, making a joke about his own incoherence. But then he would say seriously: "Willkie has it . . . . Willkie nearly knows what its all about. He's the right man. He's the boss-type, the talker . . . ."

Before Len left Dublin I gave him a pipe. Len loved buying new things, and making people surprise presents. Nearly every day he bought something new—were it only a box of matches—and gave it to somebody at an odd moment. It was, in a very minor and material way, a part of his philosophy. He wanted no day to be wasted. Every day he wanted to make some personal and intimate approach to the people round him.

He took the pipe back with him to London. He wrote to me. He said that he was keeping "the wonder pipe" to smoke at his conference with Willkie.

Then he went to New York. He met Willkie and talked to him. Willkie was profoundly interested. But still Len did not light the pipe. Nothing definite had been arranged.

Now Willkie is dead. And the pipe is still cold in Len's pocket.

Marrowbone Lane

The Marrowbone Lane Fund has just issued a brand new kind of brochure. Up to this year the fund published an annual booklet telling of its work and activities. Now the booklet has blossomed into a sixty-six page magazine, with a short story by Lynn Doyle; a dialogue sketch by the chairman, Dr. Robert Collis; the story of the "Marrowbone Lane" play, and a number of first class photographs, making a comparison between the new blocks of flats and some of the worst Dublin tenements.

Surprisingly, the young actress, Sheila May, also contributes an article — a crisply-written and intimate story of the things she has seen and the people she has talked to while visiting the slums on relief work.

The Rotunda

For some time past the Rotunda has been having its face cleaned. The cleaning has revealed an elegant façade, finely decorated with classical swags, cornices, pillars and capitals. Is the Rotunda preparing for the second centenary of the hospital to which it is attached?

In the spring of 1745 Dr. Bartholomew Mosse opened a large house in George's lane as a maternity hospital for poor women. Six years later he laid the foundation stone for the Rotunda Hospital. In another six years' time the Rotunda itself was opened as a place of public entertainment.

Here is a contemporary description:—"The rooms are elegantly enriched. Between the pilasters against the walls are trophies where shields of cut-glass and other ornaments have a very brilliant appearance. Apart from the lower ballroom and the magnificent supper and tea rooms, there are lesser rooms for cards and a restaurant. Besides weekly concerts in the winter season there are held subscription balls, supported by the nobility and gentry, card assemblies, and, once every season, a masquerade. The entertainments of the Rotunda form the most elegant amenities in Dublin. It is opened every Sunday evening in summer for the purpose of a promenade, when tea and coffee are given in the superb supper room. The receipts of the whole, after defrayance of incidental expenses, go to the support of the hospital."

QUIDNUNC.

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON.
MONDAY NIGHT.

VISCOUNT SWINTON, the new Minister of Civil Aviation, is no stranger to Ireland, for as a young man he was a frequent visitor to Co. Wexford for wild-fowl shooting. He is a grandson of the Right Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Bishop of Ossory at the closing days of the last century, and is a nephew of the late Mrs. de Montmorency, of Castlemorris House, Knocktopher, Co. Kilkenny. When he was made a Viscount in 1935 he achieved the unusual distinction of changing his name three times in eleven years. He began life as Philip Lloyd-Greame, but in 1924 changed his name to Cunliffe-Lister on inheriting a very considerable legacy from his wife's mother, who, before her marriage, had been Mary Cunliffe-Lister, daughter of the first Lord Masham. The title became extinct on the death in 1925 of the third Lord Masham, who left £1,557,606. It was an industrial revolution in silk weaving which brought this vast fortune.

Taxation Comparisons

Beer, which has been in short supply for several months, has become easier during the last week or two, and there has been at least one publican in London in the most unusual position of being able to return part of a consignment. The taxation on beer now stands at the unprecedented amount of 7½d. a pint, which costs 1s. The cheapest pipe tobacco here is 2s. 2½d. an oz., 1s. 9d. of which is tax. Even the cheapest brand of cigarettes here—1s. 9d. for 20—bears a tax of 1s. 3½d. The revenue from every bottle of whisky is 25s. 9d., while tea at 2s. 10d a lb. carries a duty of 6d. The peoples of Britain and America are now the leading payers of direct taxation, which is £34 per head per year in both countries. Canadians pay £28, Germans £23, Australians £17, South Africans £5, and Italians £3. Britain's indirect taxation is £15 a head, Germany's is £18, Canada's £12, Australia's £11, America's and Italy's £7, and South Africa's £2.

Road Accidents

The task of eliminating road accidents is likely to be a very serious one when motoring is resumed on a large scale, unless the nation is prepared for a resumption of the pre-war holocaust of ten thousand lives a year. The ideal would be to bring all users up to the Home Office standard of driving, which, properly learned and applied, is proof against all forms of accidents. One suggestion put forward is that a great new national patrol should be recruited from young ex-air pilots, who would devote all their time to the imposition of road discipline. The Traffic Acts brought in some twelve years ago have done little to ensure the safety of motorists and pedestrians, and magistrates' punishments vary greatly. In drunk-in-charge cases such low fines as £10, with twelve months' disqualification, have been far too frequent.

£750 for Clydesdale

Prices paid at the annual show and sale of Clydesdales at Lanark a few days ago included £750 for a five-month-old filly and £320 for a three-year-old mare. Prices generally were only slightly down on last year's record figures, and were around double pre-war averages.

HEADACHES— QUICK RELIEF

Many women are martyrs to a recurrent headache, which renders the sufferer prostrate while it lasts.

This need not be, for one or two 'Anti-Kamnia' brand Tablets can be relied upon to relieve pain in five minutes.

Almost the moment you take 'Anti-Kamnia' you feel the pain ease; it quickly subsides and presently stops and there comes a welcome sense of comfort and relief.

Always keep 'Anti-Kamnia' in readiness. At the first throb take a tablet or two and continue your work in comfort.

Doctors and nurses the world over know that 'Anti-Kamnia' quickly banishes all kinds of neuralgic and rheumatic pain, soothes and calms agitated nerves and brings restful sleep.

Sold by chemists only, at 1/3 a box.
